KEYNOTES THAT EDUCATE, ENTERTAIN, AND INSPIRE

ROGER GRANNIS INTRODUCTION

Our speaker today has been studying the art of communication since the 6th grade when he witnessed a presenter mesmerize 65 restless teenage boys at 9 o'clock on a school night.

Throughout his career, our speaker has put his communication skills to the test—as Top Producer and National Sales Manager at Osborne/McGraw-Hill, a computer book publisher; as Vice President of Media Products at Gartner, the worlds leading Information Technology advisory firm, and way back in high school when he talked his way out of being held at gunpoint.

When he's not helping other people sharpen their messages, improve their relationships, and be more engaging, he enjoys spending time with his family in Connecticut and hiking in hills near and far.

Here to enlighten, inform, and entertain is the managing director of Clearview24, Roger Grannis.

Roger Grannis is a communications expert and motivational humorist who has presented to audiences around the world—groups as small as 10 and as large as 10,000.

Roger has incorporated more than 30 years in sales, communications, and media production into his role as president of Clearview24, where he speaks, trains, and coaches full-time.

A natural humorist, Roger uses his entertaining stories to underscore key concepts. He always leaves audiences feeling rejuvenated and with concrete skills they can implement immediately.
